THE TALE OF A PIG

Chief Justice Marshall's First Case as a Lawyer.

When Marshall Sued Old Haskin Payment Claimed He Laughed, but When the Climax Came He Wilted.

Chief Justice John Marshall's first case as a lawyer was tried in Fauquier county, Va. It was the suit of Cohn versus Haskin, and the descendants of the great interpreter of the constitution delight to this day to tell of the subtle strategy whereby the budding jurist achieved victory over that case hardened deadbeat of Has-

This same Haskin, it appears, was a man possessed of property. But he was also possessed of a shrewd knowledge of the law. He kept all he had in his wife's name, excepting what the statute exempted from seizure for

In an evil and absentminded moment Cohn, who ran a general store in Haskin's neighborhood, trusted him for sugar and coffee to the amount of $11. This was years before the eruption of young Marshall into the law, and in the interim Cohn had given the claim for collection to every young lawyer in the county to cut his teeth on. Swiftly following Marshall's unfurling of his shingle to the Fauquier winds came Cohn with his claim. Even the callow attorney recognized tt as a veteran among claims. However, having nothing else to while away the time, he took the case, Cohn promising him all he could get out of it, which showed Cohn's valuation of it as an asset.

Young Marshall promptly brought suit, at which Haskia smiled. When judgment was obtained, Marspall rode out in person to Haskin's place and demanded payment, at which Haskin laughed.

And while Haskin chuckled the keen eye of the young lawyer wandered about the farmyard. He saw one plow, which was exempt under the law; also one harrow, also exempt; also a huge leviathan of a pig drowsing laxily in a by the late Richard Mansfield. pen-a very Gargantua of a pig

"That's the only pig I got," volunthought, for Haskin, also law wise, ure for debt.

The future chief justice rode home spoken a word. pondering deeply. Next day he was seen strolling around the outskirts of the town looking into casual pigsties and keeping his thoughts to himself.

"Not much," growled Haskin. "What tions of his audience, you got in that bag?"

swered the youth. "Say, if you gimme | mendously healthy, when one's thoughts a quarter in money I'll give you the will stray to golf or a tramp in the pig and we'll call it square." pig and we'll call it square."

"I reckon you stole that pig," commented Haskin, "else you wouldn't sell it so cheap. Here's your quarter; gimme the pig."

The youth disappeared with the quarter, and Haskin, with the content of from him, and hears the restless of one who has driven a hard bargain, That is an excellent reason for having carried the shote over to the barnyard and spilled it into the pen where lay the porcine Gargantua. Coincidentally there rose out of the aider bushes Fiske. She lives every moment the adjacent the forms of young Marshall life of the play, and in her electric adjacent the forms of young Marshall and another man-the other man was the constable. In his band he held a writ of execution. He climbed solemnly over into the pigsty and, pointing to the fat porker, said:

"I levy on that pig in the suit of Cohn versus Haskin," and he waved his hand to a man who was waiting with an empty wagon down the road. "But that plg is exempt," exclaimed the irate Haskin. "The inw allows me one pig."

"You've got him there," answered the constable, pointing to the shote as he trussed up the big fellow and called to the man in the wagon to lend a hand. "You can't make your selection for exemption after the levy's made."

"But the fellow that sold me that shote stole him," urged Haskin, growing desperate. "I can't own a stolen pig."

"All right," put in young Marshall, wholly unperturbed. "Mr. Constable, just arrest him for receiving stolen coods."

But Haskin had fled to the safety of his back porch, seeing which the con- December, A. And, concluding, the multiple descendants of the great John also delight to tell how that pig sold for $19.85 enough not only to pay the ancient claim, but to satisfy exactly the demands of court and constable for costs, leaving not a penny over for the grief stricken and wicked Haskin.

catering A writer in the Standard considers that "neither the badge of the Royal mobile association is any criterion from which members can choose their quarters with any certainty. To begin with, both bodies have given these tokens too easily and too lavishly, and have often franked the wrong hotel out of a jealous feeling of self-advertisement beause the other body has appropriated the other hotel, and because they have both been anxious to see their badges up in as many places as possible, instead of as few.

"This is the secret of the whole thing in a nutshell. With the modern car a few miles more or less on the day's ourney are of very little account, and well worth it to get a good dinner and a comfortable bed to sleep in."

To find out the best hotels in the towns of Great Britain is hardly a matter which need cost £1,000. Besides, it is not exactly the point that is fikely to be of greatest use to motorists, who raher require some authority to keep in touch with the constant changes that are going on in the hotel world. A hotel may be beautifully managed one year, and the next it may be quite second-rate or even worse. The changes in some places are so frequent that a house which is excellent in June, when visitors are not numerous, may be atrocious in August, when they are numerous. The question is not one to be approached with a view to temporary solution, but rather with the object of instituting a system which may be kept in force permanently-New York Sun.

The Great Use an Actor Makes of His Eves.

In the January American Magazine there is a most interesting interview with George Arliss, the famous actor, who, it is believed by competent critics, will ultimately take as high a place on the American stage as that attained

SEPARATOR REPAIRING Cream Separators are frequently discarded, or exchanged for a little or nothing, when a little regulating, or replacing of some worn part, at a small cost, would make it as good as new.

Hing your old separator here, before you condemn it. Costs nothing to have it examined. Heseonable prices for repairing.

Bowl rubbers, brushes, bearings, bushings, etc., for all standard makes, in stock.

Sharples Tubular Separators
